Police Board to Appoint Sergeant And Patrolman

Commissioners Met Monday Evening and Accepted Resignation of Sergeant William F. Hanley—Ask for Eligible List for Sergeant and Patrolman.

Sergeant William F. Hanley's resignation as a member of the Kingston police force was accepted Monday evening at a special meeting of the board of police commissioners held at the city hall. The resignation takes effect immediately.

The board also directed Chief of Police J. Allan Wood to ask the municipal civil service commission for an eligible list from which to appoint a sergeant and also one patrolman to the police force.

The civil service commission already has an eligible list from which a patrolman may be appointed and will submit it to the police board at a meeting of the police commissioners on April 17.

It will be necessary, however, for the civil service board to hold an examination to make up an eligible list from which a sergeant may be appointed. This examination is expected to be held the latter part of the month. Only members of the police force, who have done regular patrol duty for at least six months before the date of the examination will be eligible to take the examination for the position of sergeant.

SECRETARY WILBUR'S WIFE TO CHRISTEN SARATOGA

Camden, N. J., April 7.—Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, wife of the secretary of the navy, was to christen the Saratoga, largest and speediest of floating airplane carriers, here this afternoon at its launching. Prominent government officials were expected to be present.

The Saratoga is 883 feet long with a 105 foot beam. It has an unusual flat surface on which 75 airplanes may be carried. The vessel will be propelled by electric engines of 180,000 horsepower and will have a speed of from 33 to 34 knots. It will carry eight inch guns, the largest type permitted for airplane carriers under the late President Harding's disarmament conference.

The Lexington, sister ship of the Saratoga, will be launched soon; but the other four have been scrapped in accordance with the arms treaty.

NURMI AND RITOLA WON THEIR CONTESTS

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola won their contests at last night's track carnival, but failed to break any records. Nurmi took the two mile event in 9:46, a little more than 48 seconds slower than the world's record.

Ritola was far in front at the finish of the four mile jaunt. Jole Ray was badly beaten in the mile by Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. in slow time. Ugo Frigerio of Italy won the mile walk from Charles Foster of the M. C. A.

Willie Plant and Phil Granville, United States and Canadian walking champions, met in a two mile affair, which the American won, and set a new national record of 14:35 2-5.

Goldman Trial Date to Be Fixed

Not Ready at This Term and on May 11 Counsel Will Meet and Set a Date for Murder Trial.

In county court this morning the case of The People of the State of New York against Sam Goldman was moved for trial at this term of court by District Attorney Traver. William H. Grogan, who appears for Goldman, asked that the trial of the case go over the term as he had not had an opportunity to prepare for trial.

Goldman is charged by the grand jury with murder, first degree, in shooting one Mamie Joy Squires at the place of Alderman Joy on the Strand on February 27 of this year. The motion made by Mr. Grogan to put the case over the term was opposed by Mr. Traver. He stated to the court that the Goldman case was one of the first cases to be taken up by the last grand jury and that as soon as an indictment had been found the grand jury made a partial report, handing up the Goldman indictment at the suggestion of Judge Coffey, presiding judge, so that all possible time could be had by the defendant in preparing for trial.

At the time of the handing up of the indictment Goldman was arraigned and pleaded not guilty and Mr. Grogan appeared at that time. If the case goes over until the June term of court it will be almost impossible to secure a jury. Mr. Traver estimated that at that time it would require the summoning of perhaps 500 jurors at that time when the farmers are very busy. Mr. Traver explained that it was a hardship on the farmers to serve at the June term and cited the experience in the past of failure to get sufficient jurors to do any business at the June term.

He stated that failure to try the case at the June term would mean the case would go over until September when there is a grand jury in attendance and a large accumulation of grand jury cases following the summer recess of the courts. This would keep the District Attorney's office busy until probably October when there is a supreme court term with a grand jury. Failure to try Goldman at the June term would be equal to an adjournment to the month of November and in the meantime several of the witnesses who would be needed by the prosecution would fade away. Delay in the trial of such an action was always a benefit to the defendant he said and therefore opposed the motion of Mr. Grogan to put the case over until the June term.

Mr. Traver suggested that time could be given to prepare the case and take up its trial some time in May. He said the defendant's attorney had had three weeks already to prepare for trial.

Mr. Grogan asserted that three weeks which had elapsed were not sufficient, he stated there were several things which he had been told by Mr. Goldman which would require close investigation. Goldman had no money to employ detectives or investigators and this work would have to be done by Mr. Grogan. Murder in the first degree where the defendant is at stake he urged was a serious thing and should be given all time possible for investigation. Since February 27 when the shooting took place he said both Mr. Traver and the police had had ample opportunity with sufficient funds to make a very thorough investigation and prepare a case while he had not that opportunity. It was impossible for him to be prepared at this term for trial he said.

Judge Fowler stated that it had not been the policy of the court to force a defendant to trial at the first term of court following the bringing of an indictment. Time should be allowed in the present case to prepare.

Mr. Traver suggested that the present term of court adjourn until some date in May when the case could be taken up. Mr. Grogan opposed this on the grounds that he did not want a definite date set in May for the trial and have a panel of jurors summoned and then be forced to come into court and ask for an adjournment on the grounds he was not yet prepared to go to trial. He suggested the case go over until the June term.

At the suggestion of Mr. Traver the court named May 11 as a date when both the district attorney and Mr. Grogan might come into court and at that time fix a date for the actual taking up of the trial. At that time the date will be named and jurors summoned for that date to take up the trial.

An extra panel of 50 jurors to attend the present term of court was drawn to be present next Monday when criminal work will be taken up. There are 49 cases on the criminal calendar.

New London Hotel Burned

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New London, Conn., April 7.—Fire of unknown origin early today practically demolished the main structure of the Crocker House, one of the city's landmarks, doing damage of approximately $500,000. Starting on the fifth, or top floor, flames broke through the roof a few minutes after the fire was discovered, and then burned down to the second floor. Then the second floor gave way, dropping a mass of debris into stores and the lobby of the main floor.

More than 150 people were in the building when the fire broke out but all escaped, practically with all their belongings. Valuable estimated at about $300 were reported afterward as having been lost by guests of the hotel.

Firemen played twenty lines of water on to the structure for hours. The first alarm was turned in at 1 a. m., followed by a general alarm in 15 minutes. Five powerful pumps of the New London and Groton fire departments fought the blaze, the firemen being aided by United States sailors and police.

Air Race to The North Pole

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 7.—An air race for the North Pole was in the making today between Captain Roald Amundsen and Grettir Algarsson. It will be run in May, if both explorers continue their present plans.

Algarsson will leave Liverpool May 1 aboard the ship Iceland and hopes to reach the edge of the polar ice within two weeks. There he will inflate the special airship that the ship will carry, and, with three companions, hopes to make the flight to the pole in twelve hours. His plan at the pole is to descend from the airship by rope ladders and after making observations, to continue his flight to Nome, Alaska.

Amundsen's expedition is enroute to Spitzbergen, hoping to take off in two airplanes before the end of May. Algarsson has speeded up his preparations hoping to reach the pole before Amundsen.

SLEIGHTSBURG FIRE CALLS KINGSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fire in the attic over the kitchen of the old Cogswell house in Sleightsburg caused a still alarm of fire to be sent into the Kingston fire department asking for aid in fighting the fire. A call was also sent to the Port Ewen fire department. Both departments responded. In the meantime men from the shipyard nearby hurried to the house and extinguished the blaze with chemicals and water carried in buckets and thrown on the flames. The damage to the attic will amount to about $500.

Proprietor of Ill Famed House Is Sentenced

Frank Bruno Is Fined $200 and Sentenced For Thirty Days—Intoxicated Driver Fined—Other Indictments.

Frank Bruno, charged by the grand jury with keeping a disorderly house, running a house of ill fame and also maintaining a public nuisance in the town of Ulster, entered a plea of guilty to the charge when arraigned in county court Monday afternoon, by District Attorney Traver. It is alleged he violated the law on October 1, 1924 and continued to do so up to the present date. After Bruno had entered a plea of guilty his statement was taken in which he said he was 41 years old, had been born in Italy and at present had no business and had never before been convicted of any crime. Judge Joseph M. Fowler then imposed a fine of $200 and imposed the first jail sentence which he has handed out to those who have been convicted of maintaining a disorderly house. He sentenced the defendant to serve 30 days in the county jail in addition to the fine.

Failure to pay the fine will add one day for each $4 to his jail sentence. Recently there have been several persons indicted by the grand jury on this same charge and in all cases fines have been the only punishment imposed. The district attorney, sheriff and State Troopers have investigated several places in the county during the past few months and in several instances have secured evidence which led to an indictment. With a jail sentence in vogue as well as a fine that occupation may not prove to be so popular in the future.

Edward Vailpou indicted for unlawfully practicing medicine appeared in court and pleaded not guilty to the charge. John W. Eckert appeared for him. Vailpou, who has been residing on the Plank road in the town of Ulster, is charged with two violations, one on December 13, 1924, and another on December 4 of the same year. Vailpou had maintained an office at the residence of George P. Day. Bail was continued.

Patrick Powers charged with assault, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Gardiner on October 23, 1924, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned. Frank W. Brooks appeared for him.

Irving Powers indicted for the same offense at the same place and time entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned. Mr. Brooks also appeared for him.

Louis Marshall, who had previously been arraigned appeared in court, through his attorney John B. Sterley changed his plea of guilty to the charge, that of taking an automobile which did not belong to him. Marshall is 21 years old and resides at Sleep Rocks. He said he had never before been convicted but it appears he had trouble with his wife, who had him arrested and brought to city court on a charge of non-support. Judge Fowler sentenced him to the Elmira State Reformatory until discharged by law.

Howard Brown of the town of Saugerties was arraigned on a charge of operating a motor vehicle, while intoxicated. He entered a plea of not guilty and was admitted to bail. Grant M. Brinnier of Saugerties appeared for him.

Harry F. Brown, indicted on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned. His license was revoked, a fine of $200 payable to the state was imposed and he was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, but the jail sentence was suspended during good behavior and on condition he pay to the county of Ulster $100 which is to compensate the county for the cost of the present case. He paid.

A peace bond binding Patrick Prendergast over to keep the peace was continued. Complaining witnesses appeared and the bond was ordered continued until the next term of court.

In the case of Joseph Soriero there is an exceptionally large number of criminal cases at this term of county court and District Attorney Traver announced that he was ready to take up the cases when reached. In several of the cases attorneys who appeared for defendants asked that they be given an opportunity to talk with their clients and the outcome of this conference will be conveyed to Mr. Traver. It is likely that a number will enter pleas of guilty.

No civil cases were ready at the call of the calendar and the jurors were excused until Tuesday, April 14, at 10 o'clock. Criminal work will probably be taken up on April 12 and an extra panel of jurors will be summoned.

Court went into recess until 10 o'clock this morning.

Of the panel of trial jurors 21 were excused when they presented legal excuses.

Conference Appointments Were Read This Morning

Vice Kings to Be Arrested

Seizure of Records in Chicago, Places Many Names in The Hands of The Authorities Who May Act.

Chicago, April 7.—Arrest of vice kings in many parts of the country were predicted here today as federal agents began checking over the elaborate records of an alleged booze and vice trust, seized in a raid on the organization's "business headquarters" here yesterday.

Loose leaf ledgers, memorandum accounts, day books, filing cabinets and all the other devices of modern bookkeeping which kept an office force numbering more than 20 in regular employment, and which, it is said, give details of stupendous transactions in illicit booze running and distributing were seized. Police today were to attempt to get in touch with some of the persons whose names figure in the records.

These, it was said, include hundreds of wealthy Chicagoans, saloonkeepers, whose accounts for beer and liquor were kept in the same orderly fashion that a department store might keep its records, policemen and prohibition agents bribed, inmates of disorderly houses, in which, "the trust" is also believed to have trafficked and various items in connection with the transportation of liquor at Miami, New Orleans and New York to Chicago.

Eight men, all minor officials of the trust, who were arrested in the establishment, cloaked as a doctor's office, will be given hearings today while an effort is being made to take the alleged "higher ups" into custody.

The "trust's" books it was revealed today, showed that the organization had made a net profit of $77,000 last month.

He states that he has noticed a number of the plates hidden behind bumpers and covered by spare tires at the rear. The State bureau of motor vehicles insists that the license plates must be in plain sight of not only the police officials but of the public.

A grass fire on Clifton avenue also called out the department.

Y., April 7.—Breaking down after a long grilling, Joseph Fria, 31, of Pittston, Penna., early today confessed killing James Lemardy Sunday morning in his bed, for the love of Lemardy's attractive wife, Margaret. New District Superintendent Comes Here from Liberty—Dr. Grinton Goes to Tarrytown—

No Changes in Kingston Churches and Few in This Vicinity—Conference Closes.

The annual agony is over and a new year has begun for the members of the New York M. E. Conference who have been in session since Thursday of last week in the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. The 126th annual session closed shortly before noon after the reading of the appointments and the passage of the customary resolutions. Interest centered on the appointments of the new district superintendents and the fate of retiring superintendents. Dr. Grinton goes to Tarrytown and is succeeded by the Rev. G. B. Smith of Liberty. Dr. Houston becomes superintendent of the New York district.

The final session opened at 9 o'clock, the Rev. R. E. Wilson, presiding, with the singing of hymns and the offering of prayer by the Rev. Mr. Ross and the Rev. Mr. Kelley. Following the reading of the minutes by the secretary, the Rev. Charles E. Oakley, and their acceptance, a representative of the Group Insurance reminded all the pastors present of the absolute necessity of paying their $7.20 and amount due to Emergency Fund to Fields Hermance, 201 Broadway, New York, not later than April 20 if they would get the advantage of the same.

Following the offering of prayer by the Rev. Mr. Weyant and the Rev. Mr. Loftus, a resolution was passed to the effect that only after a year's service as pastor in charge, shall a man be admitted in full membership to the New York Conference. However it was later the ruling of Bishop Wilson that this was not effective legislation but the thought of the Conference.

After the arrival of Bishop Wilson, the Rev. Richard R. Travis started what proved to be a series of Mutual Admiration Societies, such as Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes counted as the most satisfactory society he ever belonged to. The Rev. Mr. Travis warmly expressed the admiration, appreciation and gratitude of the services of District Superintendent George W. Grinton, retiring, by the pastors with whom he had been associated and the feelings of affection were expressed with words to close both tears and laughter. In closing Mr. Travis presented Dr. Grinton with a little package, leading one to suspect that it was a case of precious things being done up in tiny packages. Dr. Grinton was equally felicitous in his response and expressions of thanks, bespeaking an equal loyalty and cooperation from the pastors for his successor.

The Rev. George A. Shaban, of the Newburgh District, was the next to say words of sincere appreciation and gratitude to retiring District Superintendent Herbert E. Wright of the district. Feelingly, Superintendent Wright replied, after receiving a smaller small package to that of Dr. Grinton.

The last of this group to pay tribute to the splendid service of a retiring District Superintendent, was the Rev. Ralph W. Sockman, of the New York District, who bespoke the gratitude and appreciation of the men of that district to the Rev. Dr. Wallace MacMillan—and again the little package. In every case the recipients fully bespoke their sense of the fine fellowship afforded them in their tasks as district superintendents and accepted the tokens of esteem as a remembrance to be deeply cherished.

Dr. W. E. Mullen was especially grateful for the association afforded him in the serving at his post with Dr. W. W. W. whom he found possessed of rare qualities of character, fairness in dealing with all sides of a question, he was intensely interested with the Bishop's balance of strength and gentleness, bespeaking patience, and a calmness that never fails. To have had the privilege of being associated with him, Dr. Mullen counted a perpetual benediction.

The following resolutions of appreciation were then passed by the Rev. A. G. Fries and adopted: "The 126th New York Conference is deeply indebted to the gracious hospitality which we have learned to associate with Kingston and the Rev. R. A. Greenwell, the able and able pastor of the entertaining Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, with his kindly and helpful committee, the committee as a whole, with the splendid service of the ladies in connection with the tables, most beautifully prepared and served, and of unusual fellowship on the part of the great brotherhood of the Conference. They all create a gratification which will linger with us."

The Conference, through a committee of men, prepared a letter of appreciation to the Rev. Dr. G. B. Smith, who will succeed Dr. Grinton as superintendent of the New York district. The letter was read by the Rev. Dr. G. B. Smith, who will succeed Dr. Grinton as superintendent of the New York district.

The pressure of the touch. The Conference Institute lectures delivered by Prof. Lewis were profoundly impressive by virtue of their intellectual grasp and honesty and illumination which they displayed, combined with that "something more" which found us in our deepest selves.

"The presence of the representatives of the press and their most considerate attitude toward our proceedings have been a matter of considerable moment to us."

"We are mindful of the ministrations of our Conference officers associated with secretarial affairs, statistics, mail and transportation and we assure them of our appreciation."

"A very personal pleasure of the Conference has been the presence of Bishop G. G. Richardson whose greatness is that of mature strength whose sermon Conference Sunday was most uplifting. We humbly hope that he, one of the noblest of God's men, as Bishop Wilson characterized him, finds his reward not least of all in the affection with which he has inspired us."

"The Conference is gratefully aware that it has in these great days, a leader equal to the days, in Bishop Luther D. Wilson, whose return as a resident bishop for the fourth quadrennial in relation to the area of which our Conference forms a part, gives us the most distinct satisfaction. As in his recent illness which aroused sincerest solicitude felt far beyond our denomination, so now in his restoration to a degree of power, marked especially in the searching address to the class received into full membership and in the wonderfully persuasive deliverance at the ordination service on Conference Sunday, we desire to reassure him of our respect and trust and the feeling that he has brought to us that God is near."

The report was signed by A. G. Fears, J. W. Tetley, J. L. Hartsock and C. E. Hewitt.

In closing the Conference, Bishop Wilson expressed his own gladness and appreciation that he could be present; his appreciation of the beautiful resolutions of appreciation of his share of which he felt unworthy; of the rare and beautiful comradeship of the Conference. And then the bishop paid a fine tribute to the efficient and untiring services of the quiet man to his left, Secretary Charles S. Oakley; as well as that of the statistician and treasurer. Nor did he forget the hospitality of the entertaining church and its pastor, Mr. Greenwell. Especially did Bishop Wilson express his gratitude for the fine, beautiful courtesy of Bishop Richardson who had acted as a father to him, or perhaps better yet in the capacity of a stalwart man to his grandfather. He was sure that any area over which he might preside or in which he would reside would have the presence of a continuous benediction.

One of the finest tributes paid by Bishop Wilson was to the women of the conference, one of whom he said had come near putting out the full content of her life to minister unto him, and he knew there were many other such. In a measure never fully understood these women had proven an inestimable blessing in the services rendered in the churches.

Then the bishop said that his co-workers and himself had honestly tried to do their very best in the making of the appointments which he hoped would be accepted in the spirit of those workers.

With the announcing of the assignments by the bishop, the singing of "God be with us 'till we meet again," and the bishop's pronouncing of the benediction the Conference closed.

SCIENCE TO THE RESCUE.

Those numerous persons who deal with bootleggers are apt to be rather uneasy in their minds. Less about the question as to whether they as well as the bootleggers are breaking the law than about the quality of their purchases, particularly after reading printed reports of the deadly effects of bootlegged liquors pronounced poisonous. If they could only have the stuff scientifically analyzed before partaking thereof—even if this be impossible before purchasing—they would feel much more secure. Apparently this very real need is being met in and about the metropolis, for one of the writers for the New York Times says he has been paid the left-handed compliment of a form letter through the mails from a firm offering to analyze chemically each of his bootlegged liquors as he suspects of containing dangerous ingredients, and to perform this useful office for him as often as he deems needful for the very moderate fee of $15 a year. As an added inducement to patronize this particular firm rather than others, he was informed that it would be necessary to submit only one and one-quarter ounces for analysis in each case instead of the four ounces usually required.

In regard to this "curious trade" of recent growth, the Times writer says: "Whether or not it is criminal, those engaged in it are seeking to deal with persons whom they know or hope to be law breakers, and habitual law breakers at that. For the possessors of pre-prohibition liquors do not have to get 'them' analyzed. It is only the customers of bootleggers who are worried lest they may have bought 'deadly liquids.'" The writer quoted gives due warning to the representatives of this new trade when he adds that "if full duty of the good citizen should be done, the result in each case would be a lot of trouble for those chemists."

WOMEN 5,000 YEARS AGO.

The women of 5,000 years ago were very much like the women of today. Recent finds by the excavators at Kish of Sumero-Accadia, a pre-Babylonian civilization on the same site, call to mind the lasting characteristics suggested by the phrase, "the eternal feminine." The report of Herbert Langdon, professor of Assyriology at Oxford, who went with the Weld-Field-Museum party of 1923-24, besides describing a wonderful Hall of Columns built by the lords of Sumer and Accad in the dim past, tells of "a fine hollow clay model of a ram which rattles when shaken," a child's toy which is "a delightful reminder of the Sumero-Accadian nursery," and further: "Two small copper vanity cases with tongs and pincers were found in graves of Sumero-Accadian women, unique objects in archaeology, and among other feminine adornments (such as beautiful carnelian and agate beads, copper hairpins with animal heads) the excavators found a solid gold chain of woven wire, a fragment, which is still about eight inches long." Also "a bronze fibula with a coiled spring, a brooch on the same principle as the modern safety-pin."

Rouge-pots and vanity cases had already been found in the ruins of Carthage and excavations in Crete had shown that prehistoric ladies of that old, old island wore corsets and rode "straddle." After all, is there anything new under the sun? In any case it is plain that all down through the ages women—and their methods—are pretty much the same.

Dr. Eliza M. Mosher of Brooklyn, who at the age of 78 has just celebrated the completion of 50 years' practice as a physician, relates that when she asked for help to get a medical education her mother said she would "just as soon think of paying to have her daughter 'shut up in a lunatic asylum.'" Such are the last half century's changes in opinions as well as in conditions.

In Scotland there is a public house or saloon for every 453 persons and in England one for every 400 persons and in Ireland one for every 224 persons. In the United States not even one is supposed to be provided for more than a hundred million persons, yet we somehow manage to stand well toward the front in our figures for drunkenness.

A New York electrical expert says it is entirely possible to run a crewless train by radio, starting and stopping it at stations and opening and shutting its doors. It is verily a time of new marvels, but in this case the railway workers may perhaps well afford to wait a while before they begin to "view with alarm."

That Body of Yours

TOOTH ACHE A GOOD SIGN.

Our dental research men are investigating the effect of abscessed teeth and infected gums, upon the body.

They find that the X-Ray shows that in adults, almost three out of four appear to have trouble with teeth or gums, but that only a certain number seem to show any ailment of the body.

Their conclusion is that where a person has strong resistance, that he puts up a stiff fight with the infected teeth, and keeps the fight right in the neighborhood of the teeth themselves. That is the reason that he suffers so intensely with tooth aches, when the struggle is at its worst.

If his resistance is not so strong, then the infection pushes past his defenses and gets into the system, settling up heart, lung, joint, and other troubles.

Where his resistance is unusually strong, he may have the infection so badly defeated, that he doesn't have any pain in his teeth, or trouble elsewhere in the body, notwithstanding that the X-Ray shows some trouble in the teeth. This is their explanation of why some folks escape trouble.

Further, it has been found that when a man with infected teeth, yet free from any body ailment, has an attack of influenza or other depressing illness, that certain other ailments follow, such as rheumatism, heart, or joint affection.

The explanation is that this influenza or other illness, has used up so much of the defensive forces of the individual, that he hasn't enough left to continue a successful fight against tooth infection, and so these ailments, spoken of above, ensue.

And the lesson? That any ache about the teeth or face should be investigated by your dentist by examination, and X-Ray, and treatment or extraction done. If no pain, but joint or muscular soreness, the teeth should likewise be investigated.

If no pain, joint or other condition present, but the teeth show evidence of infection, then have your dentist institute treatment at once.

In the meantime keep up your defensive forces by proper food, rest and exercise. There's no other method.

Greatest Health Demonstration in American History on May Day—Objectives Outlined by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
 Washington, April 7.—Sanctioned by President Coolidge and directed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, one of the greatest health demonstrations in American history will take place May 1.

May Day will be set aside by the president in behalf of the health of the 34,000,000 normal children of the United States, Secretary Hoover, speaking as president of the American Child Health Association, announced today.

"President Coolidge is calling upon the nation to bring public attention on a national scale to its child health problems and the methods of their solution," Hoover said.

"The objectives are these: 'That there shall be no child in America that has not been born under the proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from under-nutrition, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health.'"

One million children of this country were born deficient and thirty-five per cent of the normal born were deficient when they became of age, according to a survey just completed by the Child Health Association.

"While we have every sympathy for the deficient children, if the nation is to march forward it will do so not on the feet of its deficient children, but of the so-called normal child," Hoover declared.

"We will have neglected our moral responsibility if we do not mobilize all our forces to at least give our children a heritage of health. This must be the new vision of continued democracy."

America's annual doctor bill is approximately $1,400,000,000 according to Hoover. For health work only $60,000,000 is spent each year through federal, state and municipal agencies. In other words 25 times as much is spent for cures as for prevention.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE EX-SERVICE MEN OF THE KINGSTON DISTRICT

Dear Comrades:

During the World War you rendered a conspicuous service to your country. You were tried and not found wanting. Those were exciting, adventurous and sometimes dangerous days—days which tested your mettle and made you a man if the makings of a man were in you.

Today you are back in civil life, carrying on as if there had never been a war.

But, as a result of your war service, you have been forever set apart. Your friends and neighbors will always cherish a pride in you for the part you played.

Do not, however, think that your duty to your country has been completely discharged for all time. True American citizenship means service always, not only in war time. Much remains for you to do. And the agency for the accomplishment of continued public service is THE AMERICAN LEGION.

You, among the chosen few, are eligible to join THE AMERICAN LEGION. If it were not for your war service, you could not join if you paid an initiation fee of a million dollars.

Kingston Post, No. 150, THE AMERICAN LEGION, in line with the work undertaken by the National body, has dedicated itself to making the citizens of Kingston better citizens, and of making their city a better city. Kingston Post is doing its duty to the disabled comrade and his family, be he a legion member or not.

Kingston Post now faces the problem of providing a place from which to operate; a place to meet, and plan, and work. To build the American Legion Memorial Building in Kingston will need the earnest support and cooperation of every ex-service man in this district.

Comrades, we extend to you a cordial invitation to join THE AMERICAN LEGION. We ask your assistance in the welfare, Americanism and community work projected or now in progress. Help us make the citizens of this commonwealth as proud of us now as they were "then." Let our actions again demonstrate that we give ourselves in service for the common good.

Hand your dues, only $2.50 a year, to any Legionnaire, or to Eugene B. Carey, Adjutant, 53 John Street.

We meet on the 1st and 3rd Friday of each month, at 8:00 P. M., at the armory. We urge every ex-service man to come, get acquainted with our program, and help "Carry the Pack."

GEORGE W. POTTER, Commander.

EDWIN W. ASHBY, Chairman, Membership Committee.

OUR EMBLEM:

OUR CREED:

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion.

Roosevelt's Views On Gold Telegram

What President and Senator Lodge Said to Each Other About Judge Parker Now Revealed in Their Letters.

The New York Times of Sunday says editorially:

Not many important political or personal disclosures are to be found in the two volumes of the letters of Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge, just published. Occasionally there is a revelation of a state of mind which is at least amusing. In the early months of 1904 the president and Senator Lodge freely discussed with each other the probable nominee of the Democrats that year. For a long time Mr. Roosevelt had it in his head that Grover Cleveland would be named again, and would prove a dreaded opponent. But Lodge, whose political judgment was usually better than that of his correspondent, did not believe that this could occur. Finally, when the indications became clear that Judge Parker would be nominated for the presidency at St. Louis, both agreed that it would be an easy man to beat. "We shall do him up early," I believe," wrote Senator Lodge. But then came the famous gold telegram of Judge, and the president as well as the senator was much upset by it. Lodge wrote on July 12:

When I read that at Bryan's bidding they had left out the gold plank, I felt that we had simply a walk-over. But Parker's telegram altered things. Whether it was Sheehan or Belmont or his own act, there is no disguising the fact that it will help him very much. That he is for the gold standard is nothing. Every one believed that. But by his telegram at that juncture he has converted himself from a nobody into a somebody, and we have more, therefore, to reckon with. The telegram could not under existing conditions have taken the nomination from him, but it gave the impression of great courage, although he risked nothing. Even more significant was the reply of President Roosevelt two days later:

I agree absolutely with what you say about Parker and the effect of his act when the convention was about to adjourn. It was a bold and skillful move. To say that he had any principles on the subject of gold is of course nonsense; for if so he would have inserted the gold plank in the New York Democratic platform. But then he was hunting for delegates and was exceedingly careful to offend no one. Now he played a perfectly safe but spectacular game and has attracted the good-will of many decent people, and of course the hysterical adulation of the large neurotic class typified by The Evening Post. He has become a very formidable candidate and opponent; for instead of being a colorless man of no convictions, he now stands forth to the average man—and this at an astonishingly small cost—as one having convictions compared to which he treats self-interest as of no account. He has, as you say, become a somebody instead of a nobody. I think that this act gave him all Cleveland's strength without any of Cleveland's weakness, and made him, on the whole, the most formidable man the Democrats could have nominated. What the outcome will be I have not the slightest idea.

Here were private views which those who held them took previous good care at the time not to make public. The official Republican talk continued to be all about Judge Parker's weakness and insincerity. But the letters of Lodge and Roosevelt show how impossible it is for even political opponents not to have an instinctive admiration for a display of great courage by a public man.

UNI-SPAR VARNISH

Along the banks of the ancient Yangtze River—in far-off China—grows the tung tree. For hundreds of years the Chinese craftsmen have been using the oil pressed from the fruit of this tree as the basis of Chinese lacquers.

This is the secret of Uni-Spar Varnish. It contains this same China Wood Oil which has made Chinese lacquers so famous for their wonderful lustre and remarkable resistance to wear and moisture.

Use Uni-Spar on your floors and interior wood-work—it stands rough usage—is easy to keep clean, so it can be cleaned with soap and water without injury.

Uni-Spar gives equal satisfaction for all exterior work—window sills, door frames, awnings, benches and eaves.

Inside or out—wherever a varnish is needed—use Uni-Spar.

RHODOPE.
Was a celebrated Grecian courtier who was a fellow servant with Aesop at the court of the king of Samos.

She was carried to Egypt by Nanthus, and purchased by Charaxes of Mitylene, the brother of Sappho, who married her.

She gained so much money by her charms that she built one of the pyramids. Aelian says that one day as she was bathing, an eagle carried away one of her sandals and dropped it near King Siammetichus at Memphis, who sought out the owner and married her. She lived about B. C. 610.

OHIO.
The first permanent settlement in that part of the Northwest Territory now the state of Ohio, was made at Marietta 137 years ago today. A new Ohio Company was formed in 1786, and early in April, two years later, a party of pioneers from Danvers, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., left Summitt's Ferry on the Young-hoghen, on a little vessel called the Mayflower. They landed on the site of Marietta on April 7, 1788, and built a town which they named in honor of Marie Antoinette, Queen of France.

Later in the same year, the town of Cincinnati, at first called Lonsantiville, was laid out. Dayton was founded in 1795, and the following year witnessed the settlement of Cleveland, Conneaut and Chillicothe.

The first legislature met in Cincinnati, but Chillicothe became the seat of government in 1800, and it was the first capital of the state following its admission to the union in 1803.

Zanesville, which was founded in 1793, became the state capital in 1810. Two years later Columbus was laid out, and in 1816 it became the permanent capital. The Ohio country was long claimed by both French and English, and for some time it was a part of Canada.

and on his return two years later he determined to introduce the weaving of cloth from cotton in America. The power loom for weaving cotton cloth was then unknown in America, and the secret was closely guarded by the British manufacturers.

With his brother-in-law, Patrick T. Jackson, Lowell set about the invention of a power loom, and in 1813 a satisfactory model was completed. Lowell then built at Waltham a factory for 1,700 spindles, also installing looms for weaving.

This factory was the first in the world that combined all the processes necessary for converting raw cotton into the finished cloth. Lowell visited Washington over a century ago and induced the senate to add to the tariff law of 1816 a protective clause which gave a great impetus to the cotton industry. Lowell died in 1847, but the industry he had labored to establish flourished apace, and the great cotton manufacturing center of Lowell perpetuates his name.

White-Green Flannel With Sports Blouse

In vernal green, this winsome spring suit of flannel should be a prime favorite. It is in two pieces, piped in white, and is worn with a white sports blouse.

Collar and Cuff Sets of Linen or Cotton

Day-time collar and cuff sets are done in a variety of linen and cotton materials. Very showy ones are made of plaid and checked gingham, with quite deep over-cuffs to match the collar. The colors are very smart in blue, rose, orange, mauve on white, and many lovely mixtures are shown. Besides the ginghams in patterns are the pretty chambrays in plain colors.

In heavy art linen some of the most stunning neckwear sets are designed, and they employ all of the new "art" shades. Extreme flashy novelties are being introduced, such as collars and deep Medici cuffs in colored kid on which the pattern is stamped, painted, perforated or embroidered. Tan leather collar and cuffs are finished with a deep scalloped border, combined with an eyelet pattern, perforated. This effective idea is repeated in light colored kid in silver and gold finished leather.

The scallop, pointed or round, shallow or deep, is the most popular pattern shown in the novelty collar and cuff sets. Some among the variants in these are most lovely. A flat, round collar and narrow pointed cuffs are made of pale green ottoman silk bound with silver ribbon, piped with black silk. One of similar pattern is made of soft "yellow-gray" bengaline, bound with gilt ribbon, showing a cord of black satin. Black and white, green and white, and blue and white are more popular than all of the other possible combinations.

Colors Gentler Than They Were Last Season

In the lightweight sports suits and frocks for general street wear, colors are gentler than they were last season and the season preceding. "Natural" is the name describing the shade of material which is now in vogue for spring frocks, says a fashion correspondent.

There is natural kasha, for example, the soft wheat-colored material that resembles old-style camel-hair and has all of the lovable qualities of that staple among the dress fabrics. Bagging models of this tone are shown in tunic frocks and two-piece suits. Invariably they are built along the simplest lines, presenting all of the new details, but without exaggeration.

One delightful ensemble suit is made of natural kasha in a shade that is almost café-au-lait. The straight, simple frock is short, being 14 inches from the floor and narrow. Above the hips a front panel forming a waistcoat of flame-colored crepe is added. The seven-eighths length coat of the woolen stuff is lined with the crepe, matching the waist coat, and a piping of this and black outlines the long narrow collar lapel, the cuff bands and a strap that goes about the hips, crossing in front.

A soft hat of the kasha cloth, the crown square and rather high and the small brim slightly rolling, has a simple band of red for its trimming.

Sports Duds Should Be Practical in Texture

Sports clothes can be very pretty but they must be practical in texture. Hosiery, whiplash, rough serge, and all the waterproof materials are useful for the purpose. Woolen sports suiters are edged of contrasting color and material; scarlet galon, marquis, bright green wool beads, tapestry embroidery, and so on, in three-inch bands.

Cosy little snow-caps are made of brushed wool, and have an attached scarf which twines round the neck.

Russian cross-stitch embroidery in its primitive crude colors is very effective for pull-over caps.

ANOTHER DOUBLE-BREADED SUIT

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The double-breasted coat has not arrived unaltered. Paris seems to have gone quite mad on the subject of suits and topcoats which have a mannish air, and this spring madness has, naturally enough, communicated itself to us.

The O'Rosen type of suit, usually short-jacketed, has an unexpected way of being in two materials and colors. In this instance, a striped skirt is topped by a brown cloth jacket, but more usual color schemes involve navy or black and gray, or else these colors with a novelty mixture.

"Dead Shots" Devoted Much Time to Practice

I had a man with me in Texas and New Mexico—surveying for Santa Fe—who knew a thing or two about drawing a gun. Louis G. Millikin writes in Adventure Magazine.

I have seen him put his hands on his head, have another man throw up a can, draw, hit it with both right and left gun and return guns to scabbard before it had reached the top of the throw about 15 to 20 feet (or at least before it had stopped going up from the hits).

In my estimation at that time he was a marvel with a six-gun and, though I have seen others, I never saw his equal. His name was Jack Mellich.

The reason why gunmen of the "Wild Days" were such experts at the draw and shot, even with the old Frontier Colt, was simply that they spent as much if not more time in practicing the draw and shot as some of our eminent musicians spend practicing their art.

Within and Without

Why should I hasten to solve every riddle which life offers me? I am well assured that the Questioner who brings me so many problems will bring the answers also in due time. Very rich, very potent, very cheerful give that he is to have it all his own way, for me. Why should I give up my thought, because I cannot answer an objection to it? Consider only whether it remains in my life the same it was. That only which we have within, can we see without. If we meet no gods, it is because we harbor none. If there is grandeur in you, you will find grandeur in posture and sweeps. Be only to rightly immortal to whom all things are immortal. I have read somewhere that none is accomplished so long as any are incomplete; that the happiness of one cannot consist with the misery of any other.—Emerson.

Outlawed Solomon

Solomon has generally been regarded as the world's most married man, but King Tahirichoudan, who lived thousands of years before Solomon's time, had his harem. He ruled over the land of Sheba, had 3,000 ministers and ruled over 60 little kings. In addition he had 300 wives of noble lineage, 300 wives endowed with great riches and other 300 perfectly beautiful wives.

This inventory is given in one of three volumes "Mythology" translated from the French of Jacques Baret. These volumes are played in the Theron series during the cooler months of the dark moon and the costumes and sets are very accurate. There is not much "action" in the plays, but the dialogue is interesting.—Family Magazine.

"The Rebellion of Youth."
"The Rebellion of Youth," the play which the young ladies of Miss Nellie Woolsey's Sunday school class are to present in the near future, is most unique both in plot and construction. The story is told in a short prologue, two regular acts and a brief epilogue. The action in the prologue and epilogue takes place in 1925. In the two intervening acts, in 1900. A vital lesson is disclosed in the telling of the comedy, which should interest mothers and daughters especially, but the play is not a preaching, as plenty of comedy is provided by "Aunt Milder," the colored cook, "Abbie Sulpher," the village gossip, and "Josie Jumper," the jazz queen. The rehearsals are being directed by Erasmus Osmond.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, April 7.—After advancing to higher levels today stocks were in a position for profit taking and short selling. Movements of prices today confirmed the general impression that the market is a traders' affair with public participation on a comparatively small scale.

Oil stocks led a brisk forward movement in the early trading but motor stocks were not as aggressive as in the last few sessions and were quick to retreat as soon as selling pressure became pronounced.

Chicago and Northwestern declined to a new low of 49%, down 4 1/4 points for the day as rumors concerning the permanence of the $4 dividend spread through the financial district. Northern Pacific and Great Northern Preferred declined about 2 points each, after which selling of the rails became quite general.

Specialty stocks and industrial market leaders were the next to give ground. Savage Arms declined 3 1/4 points to 66; Baldwin yielded 3 1/4 and sold at 112 1/4; Mack Trucks got back from 141 1/4 to 138 and General Electric lost 4 points. Oil stocks lost a point or more from the high levels of the first hour. The decline was orderly and the volume of sales in this period was comparatively small.

Similar movements took place in the grain and cotton markets, the selling representing a desire of traders to convert paper profits into cash. Call money ruled at 4 per cent.

MAY REINSTATE WALKER AND DUNDEE TODAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, April 7.—Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and Johnny Dundee, ex-champion of the featherweights, may be given a clean bill of health by the State Athletic Commission at its meeting today, according to reliable advice. Dundee, who is under suspension here for his failure to go through with his bout with Fred Bretonnel in Paris, applied for reinstatement last week and his plea is due for consideration today.

Walker, whose suspension followed his failure to accept Dave Shadle's challenge, wants to meet Harry Greb, for the middleweight title at the Polo Grounds in June, but must obtain reinstatement here before the club can apply for a license for the bout.

Slattery Figures As Coming Champ

Boy Has Dazzling Speed, a Developed Punch, Ring Generalship and Plenty of Courage in Fights.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, April 7.—An event that may be fraught with much consequence was the two-round knockout of Augie Ratner by Jimmy Slattery some nights ago. It is more than possible that the incident may go down in the unwritten records as the birthday of a little stranger, to wit, a Slattery punch. Ratner is no man's sap or push-over and is not being knocked out every night in the week. In fact, it is not within the writer's recollection that he has ever been slapped over before.

Therefore, the occasion meant one of two things: Either Ratner had slipped beyond all reason, or Slattery suddenly found the sock for which all boxing has been waiting. He already had everything else, beyond a lack of weight, which was natural to his tender years.

He still lacks a few months of being 21 and may not attain his full growth for several years. By that time he will be more than ready for Dempsey or whoever may be riding the wave at that moment.

Is Speed King?
Speed? The boy is faster than a split-second. Generalship? It is instinctive with Slattery. Heart? He can and often does weather the heaviest going.

As for his punch, he must have been hitting with something better than a handful of loose fingers the night he stopped Ratner, a cool and calculating gent who has stepped the distance with Ted Kid Lewis, Harry Greb, Mike Gibbons, Jack Malone and a lot of good ones.

It is also of recent record that Slattery stopped Frankie Schoell, a young man of rather worthy attainments. No one had ever stopped Schoell before, either.

Has a Punch:
This, of course, gives rise to the query: Was Slattery's apparent lack of punch a matter of immaturity or did he always have it? One theory is as good as another and my guess is that perhaps Slattery's age as well as his speed militated against punching.

His age has confined him to six-round bouts in this state and few fighters can guarantee to knock a man silly in that brief interval. On two occasions—his bouts with Jack Delaney—the six-round limit reacted to Slattery's benefit, but in most cases it was and is a handicap. His great speed, which prevented him from settling himself for a punch, may also have curtailed the effect of his hitting.

Perhaps Slattery has mastered the trick of hitting hard while on the wing, but I doubt it. The chances are that he has learned that he doesn't need all the speed he has been using and his punch has improved accordingly.

BASEBALL DISPLAY AT WARREN'S ATTRACTS FANS.

A good sized replica of the baseball part on the Kingston Fair Grounds is attracting much attention in the window of the sporting goods store of C. A. Warren, Fair street. The diamond is laid out with the Colonial players cut out of cardboard in their various positions in miniature, umpire, scorers and all. The grand stand and bleachers, the advertising signs and even the hot dog stand is shown, with small pine trees in rear depicting Forsyth Park. The display brings considerable praise, from those who stop and view it.

Sunday School League Results

Saturday evening two very interesting basketball games were played off in the Sunday School Leagues. In the first game the Church of the Comforter defeated the Salvation Army by the score of 46-22. In this contest Harry Kelleher of the Salvation Army five scored 23 points, the highest individual score of the year, for a single game. Up until a short while ago Kelleher played regular forward on the K. H. S. Varsity team. In the second game the Trinity M. E. defeated the Congregationalists 8-6.

The silver cups and banners for the winners in Sunday School leagues have arrived and are now on exhibition in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. There are several large cups and banners of which the winners can be proud.

SCATTERED SENSE

Tell is the law of life and its best fruit.

No seed shall perish which the soul has sown.

It takes a woman to break a self-made man.

The straight and narrow path—the fire escape.

The handsomest flower is not always the sweetest.

It is not enough to be good. One must do it the right way.

Youngsters are true democrats; they play with whom they like.

No one who starts out to look for trouble has use for a gun.

If you leap into a well, Providence is not bound to help you out.

Evolution is not a force, but a process, not a cause, but a law.

Query: Is the poor man who marries a rich grass widow in clover?

When both husband and wife are saving, that finally founds a fortune.

All evils are "giant evils" to those who have no faith in the human race.

When a bachelor gets tired of leading a single life he should get married and be led.

The atmosphere of the stock exchange is seldom tempered to suit the short lamb.

We never forget our duties, no matter how much we neglect them. They won't let us.

A man often lives for years before he discovers that salad oil is not naturally rancid.

Those who "notice" words have a large vocabulary; others merely stumble over them.

When a man goes fishing he may not catch a good string, but he usually comes home with a long yarn.

MORE THAN WAITER WOULD STAND FOR

Ludwig Kleinwachter, Austrian consul to Chicago, said at a recent banquet:

"In prewar days, when France's silver coinage was simply rampant with counterfeiters, a foreigner could hardly make a purchase without getting a handful of silver coins in change, all of them bad.

"An Austrian one day, after lunching at a Monte Carlo restaurant, started off to get his coffee at the Cafe de Paris when his waiter rushed down the street after him yelling:

"Thief, rascal, I'll have you pinched."

"What's the matter with you?" said the astonished Austrian.

"You miserable thief," roared the waiter, "that bad two-franc piece that I gave you in change you actually had the nerve to give me back as a tip."

Might Be Possible

A boy patient at a hospital had a squint, and was consulting one of the doctors about it.

"Does he ever see double?" said the doctor to his mother.

"Can't exactly say that, sir," she replied, and then, trying to be helpful, she added, "He's one of twins, though—p'raps he does."

Misplaced Sympathy

An elephant was walking in a jungle when he came to a pheasant's nest and found that the mother-bird had flown away. The small birds looked very lonely and cold and hungry.

"Poor little things," said the elephant, in a sentimental voice. "They have no mother." And down he sat on the nest.

Hustling World

Billy Sunday, fully recovered from his serious illness, said in Rochester the other day:

"Well the world's all wrong, of course, but it's a hustling world—so about about that."

"Tex, sir," he ended, "it's a world where if you're not up and hustling you're down and done."

Mixed His Own Spring

A farmer sent the following letter to the admiralty:

"My youngest son has gone away and enlisted in the navy. I can't get him out. Won't you help me? He is a good boy and I was bringing him up for my own use."

Observant Tommy

Salter—Tommy, does a young man call here in the evening to see your sister?

Tommy—Not exactly to see her, because there's no light in the room when he's there.

No Longer Quiet Zone

"You live in a quiet part of the town, don't you?"

"Not now."

"Have you moved?"

"No, I've got twins."

American on Wheels

There are 90 times as many automobiles per capita in the United States as there are in Germany.

Self-Partnership Interest

Edgar N. Pallen, who has been in co-partnership for a number of years in the coal business with Sanford P. Borton, with offices and coal piers at 502 Wilbur avenue, has sold his interest in the business to William C. Facelli of 479 Broadway. A corporation will be formed by Mr. Borton and Mr. Facelli.

Chief Figures in the News of the Day

WILLIAM E. BORAH; EDWARD HERRICK; ALAN ARNOLD; FRANK J. MURPHY; DONALD MACMILLAN

In a speech in Chicago, United States Senator William E. Borah declared, "We are building up a bureaucratic form of government—the most burdensome, the most inefficient and the most arbitrary ever permitted to torture the human family." Premier Edouard Herriot of France is facing the gravest crisis of his political career after practically announcing a levy on capital. Cassius B. Manna, former agent of the Department of Justice, recently sentenced to two years in prison on a conspiracy charge in New York, has been indicted in Washington on charges of forging the name of United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, during the investigation into the affairs of the Department of Justice. Two United States Navy airplanes will be sent with Professor Donald Macmillan on his next Arctic expedition, which has for its object the survey of 1,000,000 square miles of hitherto untraversed territory between Alaska and the North Pole.

Lengthen Figures On Quatrain

Winner of New Orleans Derby a Pronounced Favorite—Master Charlie, Last Year's Champion Second—Other Quotations.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, April 7.—Quatrain, winner of the New Orleans Derby, and Master Charlie, two year old champion of 1924, have been rated pronounced favorites in the winter books, those pay-or-play mediums through which a hopeful dollar is cast upon the rather hopeless chance that the horse of your choice will win the Kentucky Derby. Sometimes the horse even goes to the post.

Several years ago, Zer, rated as high as 50 to 1 in the early futures, was unconventional enough to win the race and a lot of the boys are still kicking for their money.

You can't keep a good man or a good dog down and today Quatrain is going on the post on a quattrain at 5 to 1 and Master Charlie at 10 to 1, those summer bookies having learned, through the incident that big odds today mean a small change tomorrow.

For some time, the odds quoted represent a hesitating of the Bureau for Quatrain. He is still the same horse that ran so well on southern tracks, but he has been raised his price from about "bummer" odds have been lowered in a rather sensational manner. He was as high as 25 to 1 at the last call-over because it was reported that he had developed a splint in one of his legs. Within the last few days, however, his condition has been found to be stable connections, and that Quatrain will be running during the next days is still a possibility.

Master Charlie's field made, he was hammered down to 12 to 1, and he has been standing there for some time. He is being held by the bookies, which is trading at 10 to 1. This is pretty far off the post.
